

HUMANS OF e1e1

India celebrated its 71st Republic Day in the last week of January, when many unacknowledged Indian nationals were conferred the prestigious Padma awards. Their contributions to art, literature, education and social work were recognised and applauded.

In this edition, e1e1 too takes pride in commending the continual efforts of Ms Prathima Pai, a champion of rural education. She is a true Mumbaikar doing more jobs than one - raising a family, attending to elderly parents and putting together a team of 30 enthusiasts to support children studying in rural India. Her efforts in spreading the word to sponsor children's education has ensured more students stay in school being happy and healthy while learning the alphabet. Let's join her and make India a literate republic. Educate a child, build the nation!

BRINGING OUT THE BEST IN EACH OTHER

Group projects are a common commission for getting a task done, working together promotes cooperation, shared responsibilities and most importantly collective learning and growing. Students of the Sri Sathya Sai Prashanthiniketanam, Siddipet campus went the extra mile while working on their environmental education project. During their holidays, they visited government hospitals, ration shops, a dam and upon their return, they put their heads together to come up with some inspiring models and charts that replicated what they had seen. They have made not only their teachers and peers, but everyone proud with their display of resourcefulness, creativity and teamwork.

HERE WE COME TO BE THE CHANGE

Globally, while education today solely focuses on educating the academic mind, the young students of the 23 e1e1 partner schools stand distinctively tall, winning accolades for their adventurous performances during the recently concluded Annual Sports and Cultural Meet.

From the 15th to 19th of January 2020, grit, grace and grandeur were on display, as the students took to the stadium and the stage showing off their prowess. From bike stunts to martial arts, graceful gymnastics to gravity-defying acts from dizzying heights, the students stupefied spectators from all walks. The performances during the event were a testimony to the holistic education these children were benefiting from.

Thus, the take home message of Sports And Cultural Meet 2020 was what one could feel these young minds say, "Here we come to be the change".

LEADING RATINGS AND RESEARCH FIRM CRISIL JOINS THE e1e1 FAMILY

January saw CRISIL, a leading analytics and research firm join the Each One Educate Program and partner with us in investing in rural education, specifically for girl children.

CRISIL's participation brings hope into the lives of 105 girls in allowing them to continue their learning in school.

The e1e1 family congratulates the CRISIL team for their decision and is happy to have them on board as a change agent.

CAMPUS VISIT: MANDYA SRI SATHYA SAI SHARADANIKETANAM

Students with their new set of library books

On December 21, a group of e1e1-ers visited the Sharada Niketanam boys' school in Mandya.

For a few in the group, it was their first time in any of the e1e1 partner schools even though they had been part of the program for a good while. The visit gave the visitors a broad view of what the school was about and the impact it was creating on the lives of the children who called it home.

The opportunity to be a part of the lives of these little ones was indeed considered a special one by the visiting team. They got to witness a day in the life of a child in the partner school that lent them a credible glimpse of holistic education and its impact.

The e1e1 team also had a special gift for the children in the form of new shelves for the library and a new set of books. The books included biographies of sports men and women who were idols for these young children.

A game of volleyball in the school grounds ended what was a perfect day for the visiting group.
